

Art GET IN ON THE SHOW

The Art page highlights area galleries, museums and events across Chittenden County and beyond. We welcome work from galleries of all sizes, styles and media. To have your gallery or event included, just send information and color image(s) — 3-4MB — to Deena Murphy, Weekend Art Page, 191 College St., Burlington, VT 05401. OR ■ E-mail dmurphy@gannett.com ■ Questions, call 660-1869.

Ingrained language

■ WHAT: “Hugh Townley: Against the Grain” an exhibit of wood sculpture by the modern sculptor who died in 2008 and spent the last 11 years of his life in Bethel. Townley’s “imaginative, often whimsical forms made from common and exotic varieties of wood communicate through a personal vocabulary drawn from nature, Native American cultures, and Eastern spiritualism.”

■ WHEN: Tuesday through March 22.

■ WHERE: Fleming Museum, 61 Colchester Ave., Burlington.

■ INFORMATION: 656-2090 or 656-0750, www.uvm.edu/~fleming

“Wendigo” by Hugh Townley

“Einstein, Eddington, Edison and Ford” by Hugh Townley

Centripetal force

■ WHAT: Drawings by Bill Ramage that “address questions about perception and the thought mechanism that codifies the act of seeing.” The drawings reflect the “pursuit of a mental mechanism that determines what the seeing will mean and how it will be applied.”

■ WHEN: Friday through Feb. 28. Reception 6-8 p.m. Friday. Artist talk at 8 p.m. Jan. 21.

■ WHERE: Flynndog Gallery, 208 Flynn Ave., Burlington.

■ INFORMATION: www.flynn-dog.net

Bill Ramage working on a drawing.

SLACKERS

■ WHAT: “The SLACK Retrospective” work by Jesse Proia, a Northeast Kingdom native and graduate of Pratt Institute in New York. The show includes performance, video installation, and humorous and provocative product and advertising designs based on an imaginary character, Dick Wisesis and his company SLACK, Inc.

■ WHEN: Friday through Jan. 30. Reception 5-7 p.m. Friday.

■ WHERE: Catamount Arts, 115 Eastern Ave., St. Johnsbury

■ INFORMATION: 748-2600. Toll Free: (888) 757-5559.

